Dozens Indicted on Federal Drug Charges

PITTSBURGH- After a lengthy investigation into drug trafficking in Wilkesburg, Pennsylvania, forty-four (44) people - 43 residents of Pennsylvania, and one resident of New Jersey - were indicted by a federal grand jury in Pittsburgh on charges of violating federal narcotics and firearms laws. On May 21, 2014, a federal grand jury issued one superseding indictment and five indictments, all related to one another, United States Attorney David J. Hickton announced today.

“Heroin is a huge problem in Western Pennsylvania,” stated U.S. Attorney Hickton. “The prosecution of this gun-toting, drug trafficking conspiracy will disrupt a major heroin pipeline from Newark to our area. These conspirators brazenly sold their illegal drugs openly on the streets of our communities. Today they are out of business.”

According to Patrick Fallon, Asst. Special Agent in Charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation – Pittsburgh Office, “Today’s arrests are the result of a long-term, multi-agency investigation conducted by the Greater Pittsburgh Safe Streets Gang Task Force. As a result of the hard work and dedication exhibited by members of the Task Force, today we made dozens of arrests that will have a positive impact on the safety and quality of life in our local communities. We recognize, however, law enforcement is but one part of the multi-pronged effort to address the growing heroin epidemic impacting our community. We are keenly aware that in order to succeed in our efforts, the law enforcement community must continue to work together with the support and trust of the citizens we serve.”

THE INDICTMENTS

The first indictment (superseding), containing six counts, named:

Keith Eutsey, 38, formerly of Nazareth, Pa., currently incarcerated;
