

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

FASHION TRENDS ACCORDING TO....A LITTLE MAN WITH EXTRA LARGE TALENT

Doral, Florida, January 14, 2011 — Doral Conservatory and School of the Arts is proud to support the up-to-now unparalleled talent of Christopher Abella: an 11-year-old High Couture designer.

Dedication and creativity along with sensible lines and an astounding sense of composition have made the young design prodigy one of the most sought after artists of Miami-Dade and his name has started to come up in fashion's Mecca, New York.

His pieces are made to be admired and leave nothing to be desired from renowned Haute Couture designers. Christopher's mother says that by looking at her son's designs one is able to comprehend his vocation which she also calls "the Lord's Virtue." He has a clear idea of where he wants to go, says his mother.

Christopher was born in Miami and currently studies at the Expressive Arts Magnet School in South Miami, where a select group of gifted students are allowed to participate in a specialized Visual Arts program. Besides his aptitude for fashion design, he is a normal kid who enjoys such extracurricular activities like baseball.

This young fashion prodigy is, without a doubt, a special human being who deserves to realize his dream. Doral Conservatory and School of the Arts, a strong supporter of Hispanic talent, is showcasing an exhibition of his designs on Thursday, January 20 at 7 p.m. The exhibit will remain open throughout February.

The essence of art and culture is fundamental for Doral Conservatory and School of the Arts and it demonstrates it by including in its curriculum disciplines like Music, Musical Theater, Visual Arts, Manner and Etiquette and Recreational Gymnastics. This same commitment to quality and high standard is found in all the schools belonging to the IQ Village Schools franchise system throughout the nation.

Doral Conservatory and School of the Arts is located at 2900 NW 109 Avenue, Doral, Florida 33172.
