

A low-angle photograph looking up at a large tree. The trunk is thick and grey, with a wooden support structure made of planks and straps wrapped around it. The canopy is dense with green leaves, and the sky is visible through the branches. The entire image is framed by a thick red border.

CANOPY CRASHING INTO OLD TREE CANOPY

This is totally unconscious. How can anyone plant trees like this?

TERRIBLE PLANTING!

BY ↓

msarnoff @miamigov.com

