

To the lady I have victimized, I sincerely apologize for what I have done to you last week. I have never stolen from any individual this was out of character for me. I can't get this out of my head so I am returning your GPS with an extra charger and also giving you back $90 plus $10 and I dropped your wallet in a mail box which I hope you received with nothing missing.

This is no excuse for me for what I have done but I feel better if you know that I did not go there for that. I was shopping and I walked by your purse which was unattended for about 10 minutes in the aisle. I did not follow you or stalk you and even know what you looked like. I just waited and then got stupid when no one came for it.

I hope you can believe me when I tell you this will not happen again and I am sorry a million times over. I have some problems that I need to fix before I lose everything.

Sorry & Thank You
